HOPES GROW FOR REARING OF BEST

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Fans are wondering when the blood horse industry of California will be expanded to such an extent a fair degree of probability will attach to the winning of the Kentucky Derby once in a while by a California colt. In the running the other day at Churchill Downs this state did not even have a representative in the race. That should not be. Encouragement of breeding by the authorities at the helm will help a lot, but there must be hearty co-operation on the part of the owners of nurseries.

One thing is certain. The industry cannot be built up by newcomers in the business commissioning agents to purchase mares in a haphazard manner; the greatest of care must be exercised in choosing matrons. Only recently an interested party told a well-known agent to pick up a few "cheap" mares for him; he wanted to go into the breeding game, but did not want to spend much money. In a few minutes the newcomer was shown he was starting all wrong and he changed his plans, giving instructions to buy only fashionably bred matrons, at whatever cost.

William Woodward, breeder and owner of the latest Kentucky Derby winner, has turned out many good ones and his guiding principle is that on the quality of its matrons depends the success of a stud. The Sledmere Stud, in England, is another example of the importance of the selection of the "female of the species."

I have been confident all along that my inbred Domino stallion, King Heather, would be a broodmare sire of high class, and so it is. The clever winners, Richstrike and Kootenay Belle, and others above the ordinary, are from daughters of the "King."

The Derby winner Omaha has blood lines that interest me very much, as I have such strains over at my Heather Farm. As is familiar to racegoers, Omaha's sire, Gallant Fox, is from the Celt mare Marguerite. I need not point out that King Heather is from the Celt mare Antrim; all the scores of followers of the career of Maid of Perth, the brilliant daughter of the "King," are aware of her daddy's blood lines.

Another thing. Flambino, dam of Omaha, is a granddaughter of the Epsom Derby winner, Durbar II, the leading broodmare sire of France. As I have mentioned previously in these columns, Xenofol, my most recent "discovery" as a stallion, is from a daughter of the same Durbar II.

Good blood, it may be emphasized, is hard to find, but I am constantly on the lookout for it and it is to that I attribute my success as a thoroughbred breeder.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB WILL ASK CALL OF BONDS

Representatives From Every Daly City Organization Meet And Decide On Projects Action

A gathering representing all parts and many organizations of Daly City held a session on Tuesday evening of this week at the City Hall.

Thomas M. Edwards, an architect, described plans and gave estimates as to the costs on the various projects which have been considered by this group for the necessary and long needed improvements in our community.

A motion was made, seconded and carried unanimously requesting the Daly City Council to proceed with a resolution calling for an election to vote bonds in the sum of $60,000 to provide funds for the following improvements:

New library building, to be situated off Mission street on Wellington, near the City Hall.

Reconditioned Vista Grande school building for a Community Center.

This to be used for boys and girls clubs and welfare organizations and to be furnished and equipped.

Improved water and fire alarm systems for the Colma district.

Playgrounds for the Crocker tract.

Reconditioning of the Vista Grande Park and construction therein of buildings suitable for public use.

Also several necessary improvements on other city buildings.

Let us go forward and work for a better city for our youth.

Our motto should be: "Child Welfare Comes First!"

The next meeting of the Daly City Recreation and Improvemnet Club will be held next Tuesday evening, May 14, in the Daly City Hall. Every one is urged to attend these meetings, which will be held weekly.

DALY CITY ROD AND GUN CLUB FAILS TO CATCH

Have Good Time But Fish Are Scarce At Outing Over Week End

The Daly City Rod and Gun Club was represented last Sunday at the big bass carnival at San Rafael by John Flege, Fred Wegner, William Grantham, Bill Barrd and Fred Knowles.

These above members and a number of Senators and Assemblymen were guests of the San Francisco Surf Club on the good ship Jubilee, captained by Skipper Murphy.

A fish dinner was served on board, consisting of hamburger, spaghetti and coffee and doughnuts.

Bob Dwyer of the Oakland Tribune was in charge and performed in his usual genial manner.

The fishing was fine, but no fish. The moon, the sun, the water are last but not least. The finny tribe conspired to defeat the men who dared the elements in their search for a fish to enter in the contest. But lo, such was not to be. But, nothing daunted, the brave men brought back to port at least fifty pounds of sardines.

But far from being low in spirit, the Daly City Rod and Gun Club members are looking forward with zest to the coming outing this weekend, May 11 and 12. It is planned to donate all fish caught to the poor fishermen who were disappointed the previous Sunday.

Something New for the Bay State

William E. Chamberlain, left, secretary of the Eastern Horse club, receiving from Charles F. Connors, chairman of the state racing commission, the first horse race license ever issued by the state of Massachusetts. It was to be used at the Raceland track at Framingham.

WEALTH CRIES FOR WISE EMPLOYMENT

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Oliver Goldsmith is quoted nowadays as having penned apt verse when it comes to a combination of plenty and millions out of work. Maynard Bezanson, in "Gold," says:

"I am sure that Oliver Goldsmith will forgive me for taking liberties with his immortal lines—if he now knows what goes on here.

"'Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth lies dormant, while men decay.'"

A Peace River pioneer, Bezanson asks rhetorically:

"What has come over us?"

He has for answer the sage observation it would be well to focus attention on the riches of the soil and under the soil and the myriad of idle hands and get the two together. In developing his timely thought he declares we should quit yawping about sound money and issue the new currency the people are entitled to issue without disturbing our money standards.

Specifically, as the United States government is already doing in sending hardy farmers to the Matanuska Valley in Alaska, the oldtimer suggests that the Canadian government move farmers from dried out areas to new locations. A number of the unemployed would be put to work helping the farmers build homes and fences, clear land, and get established, holding the land as security.

What is of particular interest to the mining community, picked crews of unemployed in charge of capable men would be sent out into the hills and among the streams and rocks, seeking and developing new mineral fields. Other crews would be busy completing the transcontinental highway, the highway to Pease River, and the highway to Alaska, from Prince George. One important thing pointed out is the payment of fair wages to the workmen.

As I have often said, every dollar spent in constructive work, multiplies ten, or more, times in circulation. The men capable of work must be given the opportunity of working.

* * *

In the lull of commercial fishing up Bristol Bay way, the residents of Nushagak and its vicinity are anticipating a recrudesence in prospecting for gold. The region has not been explored to any extent and it may be something sensational may be uncovered.

Not so long ago I noted reports of promising placer prospects on the Upper Nushagak. The district is easily accessible by plane. With the breakup came a number of incursions.

In the Alaska Weekly, the sprightly publication edited by my friend, Earle W. Knight, I read of the preparations of Lee Wise of Tacoma to fly to the Upper Mulchatna. Wise reconnoitered the country last fall, but, owing to the lateness of the season, decided to go back in the spring.

The Tacoma man is the first prospector, it is said, ever seen in that section of Alaska with a gold pan. As a labor saver it is reported to be the berries. A few shakes and you look through the transparent bottom—the colors are there if you've got 'em.

Those familiar with the conditions up north are perfectly right in pointing out that the Matanuska Valley, although selected by the Federal government for its initial trial at colonization, is not the only section of Alaska attractive to prospective homesteaders.

The country is being held back by the lack of transportation facilities, andit won't be long before that problem will be solved. The Alaska Highway is being built from both ends working toward the middle. That means rapid progress for both mining and agriculture in the next few years.

Some experts declare that no district in the world has the wealth of natural resources of the Kenai Peninsula and adjacent territory and they know what they are talking about, too. Rolling meadow and upland pasture land, timber and fish, and game in abundance are available. A great empire in the making, we'll say.

JUVENILES ARE TO CLASH IN TWO YEAR OLD RACE

Interesting Event Is Contest Between Some Of Our Flashiest Youngsters

Jnveniles clash for the two year old crown at Tanforan course Saturday, (tomorrow) May 11. Some of the flashiest youngsters seen in recent years are expected to line up for the Baldwin Handicap, five furlong fixture named in honor of the famous California breeder of the early days, "Lucky" Baldwin.

Although Maid of Perth, unbeaten California bred filly, undoubtedly will be top weight and favorite, the fact that she is going five furlongs for the first time and will be making weight concessions to the others promises to make the encounter a thrilling one. The contest will also mark the first start at five furlongs for several of the other members of the field.

Maid of Perth may run coupled with Orra as the J. W. Marchbank entry.

Opposing Maid of Perth will be a shifty field. Here is a brief "line" on the probable starters:

Blaze Home: One of the best juveniles at Santa Anita. Had trouble in last at Bay Meadows, but was charging at wire. First start here.

Hasty Day: Another speedy youngster. Works fast. Has had rest and is ready for best.

Fresno: Clever filly. Won last in convincing style.

Calaveras: Must be given real consideration off best. Workouts indicate fitness.

Valiant Fox: May be "dark horse." Slow coming around and, like all sons of Gallant Fox, lacks early speed. Was flying through stretch in last. Will like added distance. Owned by Norman Church.

Toro Prodrome: Same barn as Valiant Fox. Just coming to hand. Real ability not shown yet.

Shasta Banner: Third Church possibility. In great shape.

Other keen possibilities include Charming Miss, Santa Anita, Marcleave, Beronda, and Ina Dear.

FIREWORKS AT BOARD MEETING LAST MONDAY

Supervisor Informs District Attorney Where Latter Should Head In

At Monday's session of the County Board of Supervisors, before a crowded chamber, Supervisor Walter High branded District Attorney Gilbert C. Ferrell as a "king fish" and "show off." He accused Ferrell of "trying to run the county," and warned the latter that the board would not much longer tolerate his attitude towards it.

Chairman Manuel Francis, of Half Moon Bay, stole Ferrell's own thunder when he accused the district attorney of refusing to co-operate with the board and not trying to get along with its members in their official capacity.

The denunciation was in answer to the district attorney's charge that, through the actions of a majority of the board members, "county government is demoralized and public funds tied up."

After Ferrell had again assailed the members of the board,accusing them of high handed methods in failing to accept and heed his advice on several occasions and in assertedly employing private counsel, Supervisor High declared:

"Several weeks ago, Mr. District Attorney, you instructed us to retire into County Executive Kellogg's office. You said you would go to your office and we should call you in to consult with us. Very well, when you came in you told us absolutely nothing. You are trying to run this county. You might be a king fish in your own office, but you are not in here. You are just a showoff."

Establishment of pea picker camps at Pescadero and Half Moon Bay was abandoned by the board for this season because of the request of SERA

ASSOCIATED FIREMEN ARE TO GIVE GRAND BALL

Funds Will Be Used For Entertaining Visiting County Members

The Associated Firemen of San Mateo County is composed of members of all the fire departments in San Mateo County.

This organization originated in Daly City in the year 1925, and has served a very useful purpose by bringing the fire departments of all the towns and fire districts together once a month, at which time the different problems of fire fighting are discussed and every department gets the benefit of the other department's experience.

This association is under some expense in entertaining the members at each meeting and to raise the funds to meet this expense they are giving a grand ball on Saturday evening, June 1, at Pacific City in Burlingame. Tickets are on sale by the various fire departments throughout the county.

Patronize this affair and help your local fire department and add to your own protection.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS CONTRACT AWARD

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson School District, held Wednesday evening of this week, the contract was awarded for the construction of three new elementary schools, bonds for which were voted by the electors of the district last fall.

The contract was awarded to the Meyer Construction Company of San Francisco, that firm being the lowest bidders for the work.

The work on the new buildings will begin as soon as the federal government PWA approves the contract documents.

ALMOST HUNDRED PER CENT

Ninety-seven per cent would be considered an excellent mark on an examination paper, and when W. Zeillemaker, proprietor of the Signal Barber Shop, was rated at this high percentage by the California State Board of Barber Examiners, he probably felt as proud as a school boy.

The Signal is now doing business at its new location (which was its stand for several years) 6303 Mission street, near Wellington avenue.

You will enjoy having work done there, not only because Mr. Zeillemaker is a master workmen, but on account of the restfulness of the place. The interior of the shop is done in a soft shade of blue, so easy on the eyes

The tiling, linoleum, velvet cushions and even the clock on the wall, all blend in color harmony, and that means a lot, especially on a Saturday night when sometimes there are customers ahead of you and you are obliged to wait.

When you visit this place you will agree that the Signal is in every way a sanitary barber shop, almost 100 per cent, and up to date in every way

NEED HAS NOW BEEN SUPPLIED

Daly City has long needed a jeweler and watchmaker. Watches so often need fixing and how inconvenient it is to be obliged to go out of town to have the repair work done!

C. Behrend, now located at the corner of Wellington and Mission, has a fully equipped jewelry store, where expert service is guaranteed on all repairs. Mr. Behrend will also pay top prices for your old gold. He is displaying a complete line of watches and jewelry, electrical goods such as percolators, waffle irons, toasters, clocks, etc., and also fountain pens.

Say, fellows! there are some diamond rings on display in the window. Take a look—and when you say "I'm going shopping with you" ponder her attractive little third finger for your inspiration. Don't be bashful—Mr. Behrend will help you make the right selection. If he has not in stock what you want, he can procure it for you on short notice.

C. Behrend is now a Daly City merchant, and you should give him your support.

HOME BALL CLUB WINS IN LEAGUE OPENING GAME

Nerve Wracking Contest Is Witnessed By Cheering Crowd Of Spectators

(By Al Gould)

The Daly City Tanforan baseball team opened its league schedule with a victory over the strong Burlingame Bees club in a most bitterly fought contest, Sunday afternoon on the Jefferson diamond by the score of 4 to 3.

Luck, breaks, erratic playing, or what have you, played an important part in this battle. One must delve into the records of the game for the answer. For example, in the first inning for the home club:

Kirby singled. Carrasco placed a perfectly hit ball, on the hit and run signal, about twelve feet from the first base line. B. Killilea, expecting a dump, charged in, which drew Crary, the second sacker, over to cover first. The result was that Crary ran into Carrasco's line drive, doubling Kirby at first, unassisted. Maloney singled. Vasquez sent Maloney to third with a single. Dinneen was hit by a pitched ball, filling the sacks. Nelson then walked Petrocchi, sending Maloney home with the first run. Albrecht fanned. Three singles, a batter hit, a base on balls, but only one lone tally.

In the third for Burlingame: Hughes singled and was sacrificed to second by Nelson. M. Killilea fanned. With the count two and two on B. Killilea, he connected with the next pitched ball for what looked like a sure line single to left center. At the crack of the bat Vasquez was off and, running backward, leaped into the air and came down with what looked like an impossible play, thereby robbing the visitors of a score.

But, when the local team came to bat in this inning, the robbing incident was duplicated by Barroni, the left fielder, who went back down the slight embankment in deep left field, leaped into the air and came down with the ball, robbing Vasquez of a circuit clout.

The local half of the fifth inning opened with Carrasco chopping a pop fly to Crary. Maloney connected for a triple and Carrasco came home. Vasquez singled, scoring Maloney. Dinneen singled, sending Vasquez to third and took second on the throw-in. Vasquez stepped off the bag and was promptly tagged out by O'Connor, who had the ball concealed. Petrocchi fanned and the rally was over.

Opening the last half of the sixth, Albrecht went out, short to first. Kondeff grounded one to M. Killilea, who bungled. Sullivan grounded one to the same spot for what looked like an easy double play, but Dame Fortune favored our boys when M. Killilea tossed the ball over Crary's head, Kondeff racing home with the tying run and Sullivan stopping at third. Bill Kirby promptly sent a long fly to deep center, sending Sullivan home with the winning tally.

Tallini, who reileved Nelson on the mound for the visitors, kept the local boys hitless for the three and two-thirds innings he faced them.

Maloney and Vasquez excelled at the bat for Daly City, while Crary and Barroni showed the way in this department for the visitors, but the scoring of the latter was greatly aided by O'Connor, whose triple was responsible for two runs.

DALY CITY A. C. DEFEATS VISITORS

The Daly City A. C. easily took in hand the Martelli Winery club Sunday afternoon at Jefferson High School diamond.

The locals drove the pitcher from the mound in the sixth frame. Joe Lucia, local right fielder, started the inning with a triple, followed by another by Plansky. Gerstenberg singled to left, bringing in Plansky; Johnson singled to left and S. Lucia tripled to deep center, scoring two runs; Pasterini sacrificed to left, bringing in S. Lucia. Nelson flew out to left, as did Smith to short, retiring the side. The score:

JEFFERSON LOSES IN RETURN GAME

In a return game, Galileo again defeated the Jefferson nine by score of 4 to 3. Galileo defeated Jefferson once before by the same score. The game was played at Galileo on Monday.

The Indians fought until the last trying for that extra run that would have tied the score, but the excellent pitching of the Galielo twirler made it impossible.

for at least twenty acres. Pea pickers will establish their own locations.

A deed for the extension of Fifth avenue in North Fair Oaks to the Bayshore highway was accepted.

Over the protest of District Attorney Ferrell the board voted $1980 out of the unbudgeted reserve fund for the purchase of a car for Coroner William Crosby.

This was the occasion of another blow-off.

Ferrell said that he would like to have the proposed purchase explained and that County Auditor Edward Stack would not approve the claim.

Supervisor John Poole of Redwood City stated that if there was anything "shady" about the transaction, he would like to have the district attorney explain what it was. Ferrell offered to shed no light on the subject.

Further replying to the district attorney, Supervisor Al Witt of Daly City declared:

This particular matter will probably go into the superior court for a decision. I voted for this appropriation, knowing full well what was in the district attorney's mind. In court we will find out if the controller's office is co-operating with this board. We'll see if I am right or wrong, but I think I'm right."

The matter of the ouster of Carl Scott as county engineer was not brought up at the Monday session of the board.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Then she disappears, and McNamara learns that she is living in Paris. He also discovers he is in love with Lanny.

"The instructions are fine, but why commit forgery by signing Dan's name? If the original is traced—"

"I have signed it Mac, and the world is filled with Macs. When Dan has reached his office, telephone him and tell him to do something that will prove in any court he was in his office when I filed this cablegram."

Lanny relented. "You might make a detective, at that."

Twenty minutes later Dan McNamara was listening to Lanny reading Stephen's cablegram over his private line. "Excellent," was his sole comment, "but print it in block letters. Even a typewriter can betray one. When Steve files this telegram have him pay for it with a hundred-dollar bill, and have him wear large black goggles and the rim of his hat pulled down all the way round. The girl who receives it will think one crook is cabling another. If she's ever asked what sort of man filed it, her description of the sender, plus my own perfect alibi, will put me in the clear."

"How are we to manage after she has eluded the Paris police?"

McNamara sighed gustily. "Flynn will be in touch with her bank, and every time she cashes a draft on her letter of credit, Flynn will have a line on her address."

"You're no help," Lanny snapped, and hung up. Half an hour later, from the cable company's main office, Stephen dispatched the cablegram.

With Dan McNamara definitely out of the fight, Stephen felt lonely and apprehensive. He wondered why the girl had fled to Paris in the face of Dan McNamara's instructions to flee to Lower California, to enter which no passport is required. He asked Lanny.

"Oh, that's no mystery, Stevie. I brought home from the office, intending to show it to Dan, an article by a celebrated plastic surgeon of Paris. Penelope read it with great interest. She went to Paris to consult this French plastic surgeon and also to have samples of her new nose drawn by a competent artist."

"So that's how the Paris police informed Dan she was having her portrait done by an American artist, eh? I suppose it will be her luck to be in a hospital undergoing the operation when the Paris police receive word to deport her."

"I'm afraid she's bailed everything up, Stephen. Flynn will have the number of her passport and Dan will have no time to fix a new passport photograph on to it. They'll not trust to the photo to identify her if she tries to land. They'll check up on the passport number also."

"Will you never cease discussing this miserable business, Lanny?" Stephen burst out irritably. "If it hadn't been for you we wouldn't be in this wretched predicament."

When the captain of detectives called in Detective Sergeant P. Flynn and related to him the tale told to him by Mrs. Rudolph Merton, Flynn gave no sign of being particularly interested. Carefully and methodically he arranged in his mind the facts as stated, and when he left the presence of his superior, all he knew was that he was to strive to recover a lost heiress by name Penelope Gatlin, and that she had a nose that should make her recognizable anywhere.

After nine hours of refreshing slumber, Flynn proceeded to ponder the case of Penelope Gatlin of the saddle nose. "I seem to be getting my fill of girls with saddle noses who disappear mysteriously," he decided lazily—and instantly something clicked in his brain and he knew he was on the trail of Nance Belden again. An heiress, eh? McNamara had hinted at powerful influences back of Nance Belden, and she certainly must have hired the expert help she had had in her escape from San Quentin penitentiary.

"McNamara knows who she is," Flynn decided. "He's getting his—in chunks—for helping her. I'll bet it's the same girl."

He decided not to take Angelloti into his confidence. For two hundred and fifty dollars, Angelloti had agreed to abandon his interest in Nance Belden; whereas P. Flynn had scorned to quit. He would pick up the trail again alone, and when he had Nance Belden or Penelope Gatlin on his hook—well, she had to pay somebody to keep out of San Quentin, and that somebody should be P. Flynn.

He went to San Jose that day and interviewed the officials of the bank, who, when he flashed his shield, gave him all the information they possessed. Dan McNamara had artfully destroyed all the girl's police photographs, but if she had secured a passport, Flynn argued to himself, she had left two of her passport photographs with the passport office, and Flynn knew he could borrow one of them.

Flynn's shield was an open sesame to the man in charge of the passport office. Two minutes after his arrival he knew Nance Belden had secured a passport.

Employing identically the same means McNamara had employed, he traced Penelope Gatlin to Paris within three days. But he had now to prove that Penelope Gatlin and Nance Belden were one and the same person, so he interviewed the United States marshal, who secured for him one of the girl's passport photographs. Armed with this, Flynn crossed the bay to San Quentin.

"Is that Nance Belden?" he asked the matron.

"That is Nance Belden," was the reply.

From the ferry he went at once to the home of Mrs. Rudolph Merton. He stuck the photograph under her nose and asked gruffly: "Is that Penelope Gatlin?"

A tremor ran over Mrs. Merton's face. It seemed to Flynn that she was frightened, disturbed.

"Well?" he demanded. "You can't expect the police to find your missing daughter if you don't help. Is this her picture or isn't it?"

"I—I don't know. I have never heard of her before."

"Never heard of her! Why, she's your daughter!"

"I haven't any daughter."

"Why, you called on the captain of detectives and asked him to find your daughter. What do you mean by telling me you've never heard of her?"

"I can't remember. I don't know. Oh, please, please don't ask me! Something terrible will happen. I—I—"

"You refuse to identify this photo as that of Penelope Gatlin?" Flynn was growing irritated.

Finally she had hysterics and a maid came in and asked P. Flynn to leave the house.

Flynn was profoundly irritated. He knew Penelope Gatlin was at 27 Rue Instantly Something Clicked in His Brain and He Knew He Was on the Trail of Nance Belden Again.

St. Honore, Paris, but he did not know that Nance Belden was! Back at central office, he compared the passport photograph with the substitute photograph Dan McNamara had pasted on Nance Belden's fake police record card—and knew it for a fake.

Suddenly it occurred to Flynn that he had had an official interview with everybody connected with this mysterious case, except Dr. Stephen Burt.

"You're a long time getting around to see me, Sergeant," Stephen charged, and indicated a large, comfortable armchair.

"I called on you once, Doctor, but you didn't know it. That was the night after Nance Belden escaped from San Quentin. Me an' my partner trailed you to the chief's house."

"I've always thought you and the excellent Angelloti didn't make the best of your opportunities," Stephen murmured. "Still, I suppose you were playing with dynamite."

"We were," said Flynn, "but no more. The chief's one of the biggest-hearted men in the world, but a picnic egg if you rub him the wrong way. So we pussy-footed."

"No fair man could deny the excellence of your pussy-footing. I know all about it. How about a wee Dock an' Doris?" Stephen suggested.

"There's an idea for you, Doctor."

Stephen summoned the butler and ordered the drink. Flynn, with great deliberation, produced Penelope's photograph.

"Do you know the lady?" he queried.

"I think I do, Sergeant."

"Who is she?"

"Is there any reason why I should express an opinion?"

"Not unless you choose to be good-natured. I suppose you know you're in Dutch for aiding and abetting an escaped convict."

"Well?"

"Naturally we don't want to make the going hard for a man of your standing," Flynn continued.

"My dear sergeant, you would have started the fireworks long ago if you had anything tangible to proceed upon."

Flynn sipped his highball. "You're being well paid for shielding this girl, of course. I don't blame you a bit, but—you're too big a figure in your profession to get into trouble with the police."

"Dan McNamara is my friend."

"Well, Mac is out of it. He can't protect you because he must protect himself. It might interest you to know that Nance Belden and a lost heiress, Penelope Gatlin, are the same person, and I have the Paris police watching her right now."

"Are you quite certain the girl is still at that Paris address?" asked Stephen.

"I know it."

"I know she isn't—and the Paris police do not know where she is."

"Do you?"

"No, but if I did I wouldn't tell you."

"Look here," said Flynn. "What's it worth to your young girl friend to have me lay off the case?"

"I'll give you twenty dollars in Confederate currency. You were offered real money once and refused it."

They looked at each other searchingly, then both laughed. "I see there ain't much use pumpin' you, Doc," Flynn admitted. "Well, a fellow can't be ruled off for trying."

"When were you to see a doctor last?"

"At the age of twenty-two. Why?"

"How old are you?"

"Forty-two."

"Well, just to prove I'm friendly I'll give you a quick physical examination. It may save you a fee later from some other physician. Mind if I give you a quick look-see?"

"Go to it," said Flynn.

Stephen tested Flynn's heart action and lungs and took his blood pressure.

"You're up thirty-six points," he told him.

Flynn was distinctly perturbed. "What does that mean?"

"It means that you have a fairly well developed case of hardening of the arteries. If you were to be re-examined physically, for promotion, you might be retired on pension."

"I couldn't afford that," cried Flynn. "I've got a wife and five children."

"Nevertheless, I would suggest you apply for a six months' leave of absence and have me treat you. How's your eyesight?"

"Grand," P. Flynn mumbled.

"I doubt it, Sergeant. I'll bet you a hundred dollars you cannot look into this little mirror fifteen minutes without averting your gaze. Want to earn the hundred?"

"I can't afford that much of a bet, Doc."

"Well, then, we'll not bet, but if you can I'll give you a hundred dollars."

Stephen produced a hand mirror and held it two feet in front of Flynn and about six inches above the level of his glance. He took out his watch. "Go!" he said. "And remember I'm watching you. If you get through this test successfully there's hope for your arteriosclerosis."

P. Flynn grinned and gazed. In three minutes the effort oppressed him. Stephen's voice reached him as from a distance.

"You are going to sleep, Sergeant."

Then, "You can't stand it, Sergeant. You're going to sleep, I tell you—to sleep."

"I'm not," Flynn protested drowsily, just as his eyes closed and his head fell forward on his breast.

Stephen's soft hands stroked the detective's brow. "Why did you call to see me?"

"To get you to identify the photograph," Flynn's voice was faint.

"Why was that necessary?"

Flynn hesitated, struggled a little, but lay back quietly again as Stephen's facile hands resumed their light massaging. "Are you going to oppose me, Sergeant?"

"No, Doctor."

"Will you answer questions truthfully?"

"Yes, Doctor." The tones were dead and lifeless, for Flynn slept a hypnotic sleep.

"Why was it necessary that I should identify the photograph?"

"I've got to know before I act, Doctor. The matron at San Quentin says it's Nance Belden, but the photograph is on the passport of Penelope Gatlin."

"Why do you want this girl?"

"She's made a fool out of me—and she can pay well to be let alone."

"You're not interested in seeing her returned to prison?"

"Not a d—n bit, Doctor. Why should I?"

"That name, Penelope Gatlin, is bad luck," Stephen warned. "Never repeat it to a human soul. If you do it may mean your death. And your oldest child will be kidnaped, tortured and killed."

"Oh, God, no!" Flynn cried out in agony.

"You must forget Penelope Gatlin and Nance Belden. Will you?"

"Yes, Doctor."

TO BE CONTINUED.

In Case of Emergency

HAIL THREAT TO CROPS, EVEN IN TIME OF DROUTH

Neither drouth nor extreme heat stops hail storms. In 1934—a time of record-breaking dryness and high temperatures—hail damage to crops was as widespread and almost as severe as usual, according to the weather bureau. All the way from New York to California and from Florida to Montana hail beat into the ground crops that had escaped the drouth.

Hail, the coming of which cannot now be predicted, is a menace that hangs over all crops east of the Rockies, particularly in the Midwest. A hailstorm can reduce a promising field to a total loss in a few minutes. Hailstones, says Dr. W. J. Humphreys, of the weather bureau, are formed in the vigorously rising air of a thunderstorm. Raindrops are blown up to a level where it is so cold that they freeze. But the ascending air is puffy, so that many of the frozen lumps must make several excursions back and forth between the levels of snow and rain. All the time they grow larger and larger by capturing snow crystals in one level and raindrops in the other, until at last they are too large to be supported by the uprushing air and fall to the ground. Some of the hailstones that fell early last year were two inches in diameter. Later, in some places, they were the size of hen's eggs, while in still other places ice slabs as large as saucers were reported.

In 1934, as usual, the most destructive hailstorms occurred in June, July and August. Florida's hail season, however, began in February. By April the storms had spread to Oklahoma, Arkansas, and South Carolina. In May they were breaking out in Wisconsin. The extent of damage from hail in any one year can never be determined definitely. Estimates by the weather bureau, mostly from the outstanding storms, show a loss in 1934 of nearly $8,000,000—the heaviest since 1930, when it was $10,000,000.

No very serious hailstorms have been reported by the weather bureau so far this year.

THREE MILLIONS A YEAR SPENT FOR INDUSTRY

Expert Says Mining Needs Financing Principle That Is Sound And Sane

"The future progress of the mining industry in British Columbia will be assured as soon as the people engaged in it begin to place their dependence on sound sane mining, and not on the mining racket."

With these words, Dr. J. F. Walker, provincial mineralogist, concluded an address on the British Columbia mining industry before a large audience attending the Board of Trade Mining Bureau luncheon at Hotel Vancouver, recently.

Dr. Walker recalled that British Columbia was pioneered by men attracted by gold discoveries in the Cariboo. Further mining development came as a result of the C.P.R. tracklaying in the Rockies, which discovered the silver-lead deposits of the Kootenays, and later the copper deposits near the boundary.

Today British Columbia has four major industries: Mining, agriculture, lumbering and fishing.

While lumbering today occupies first place and mining second, it is significant, he pointed out, that of British Columbia's total area approximately 75 per cent is not unfavorable to the occurrence of mineral deposits, whereas only about 5 per cent is suitable for agriculture, and 40 per cent, of which two-thirds was burned off some years ago, can be considered as productive of commercial timber.

Having at one time occupied premier place as British Columbia's chief industry, mining has been replaced by lumber, but in recent years has staged a healthy comeback.

Dr. Walker quoted figures showing the economic importance of mining to the people of this province.

Here are the figures:

Capital invested	$180,000,000
Salaries and wages paid	15,000,000
Fuel and electricity	4,500,000
Annual developm't work	1,500,000
Men actually employed	13,000
Dependent on mining	100,000

At $25 a month per individual for food, the speaker continued, 13,000 men would consume $3,900,000 worth of food stuffs.

There are 11,000 prospectors who would consume another $2,000,000 without counting the additional consumption of 7000 "relief cases" out on free miners' licenses.

Summarizing the expenditures, Dr. Walker estimated that mining alone resulted in $33,000,000 being spent in British Columbia last year.

"Spokane," he said, "was, as we all know, built on mining. Vancouver missed the business resulting from the rush to the Yukon, and I am afraid this city is missing much of the business which the present British Columbia mining development could provide.

"We must bear in mind that while mining is only our second industry today it may be our first next year or the year after."

Turning to the question of orderly and rapid development Dr. Walker emphasized the need for sound, honest financing. The Dominion government has taken in hand the job of providing a good geological map of the country. When this is available it will be necessary to prospect the territory thoroughly. "Fifty per cent of it is as ye tunprospected," he said.

"But we can't get very far with any sort of development," he continued, "without more sanity in financing. We have got the man in the street interested in what the stock will do on the board, and not at all in whether the mine will produce or not. This must be changed by getting people interested in sane mining and not in the mining racket."—Vancouver Sun.

Purpose Of New Light

That new, low candlepower bulb which burns in front of the driver may need explanation. If the driver has any trouble figuring out its function, let him know that it is his guide to which of the headlight beams is in use.

When the light is on, it testifies that the "long range" beam is burning. Its use was dictated by the fact that, with foot control of the headlights, drivers found some confusion in determining just what the headlights were doing.

MINING NOTES OF VARIOUS SECTIONS

Canada's production of silver in January was 1,243,545 ounces, compared with 1,363,238 ounces in December and 1,489,694 ounces in January, 1934. This is at the rate of around 15,000,000 for the entire current year, compared with 16,219,212 ounces in 1934 and 15,187,950 ounces in 1933. Silver stocks in Montreal, January 31, 1935, 3,627,007 ounces.

Financial editor of the Sunday Express, London, England, in a recent issue says he favors lead among base metals, as there is a big demand from Germany; in fact, it is one of the few commodities that nation is willing to pay for. In addition, the price is below pre-war levels. As pointed out in this column many times, the writer adds that while costs of production have been reduced in recent years, known sources of supply are not increasing, in spite of intensive search. He adds that Burma Corporation's reserves are definitely limited and known, with life not more than ten years from now, although a rise in price would bring in additional reserves of marginal ores.

* * *

Meridian Mining Company, Camborne, Lardeau district, during March made four shipments of concentrate, containing 744.5 ounces of gold and 318.42 ounces of silver, worth approximately $27,000. Ratio of concentration increased progressively to 38 tons into one, about the present rate, with last shipment averaging 7.396 ounces gold and 3.45 ounces silver per ton, with payment for 97½ per cent of gold and with silver at 60.87 cents per ounce. Freight and treatment charges approximate $18.24 per ton, or 37 cents per ton of mine run ore. Mill capacity has recently been raised to 110 tons per day and will probably be extended further. While costs are exceptionally low, due to several reasons, it is believed further reduction can be effected by increase of milling capacity to 200 tons daily and cyanidation of concentrate. Special studies of these possibilities are now being made.

* * *

Results achieved by Island Mountain Mines, Cariboo district, under control of Newmont Mining Corporation, are doing much towards bringing lode mining in Cariboo before the public. It is officially announced that during the first three months of this year the mill treated 6076 tons of ore, an average of 68 tons daily, in a plant of rated capacity of 50 tons, with mill feed averaging .66 gold, for recovery of 3763 ounces. Value was $133,297, with average extraction of 93.7 per cent. Average recovery per ton milled was $21.94, and operating profit $69,849, or $11.50 per ton.

Net operating profit, after depreciation, depletion and taxes, was $29,418, with net current liabilities, including loan from Newmont, $105,900 at March 31.

* * *

Annual report of Base Metals Corporation, operating the Monarch mine at Field, B. C., which has just reached Vancouver, shows that during 1934 value of production, less freight and realization, was $396,204, with obsolescence, depletion and income taxes, of $128,888. Writeoffs, including 105,456 depreciation on plant and buildings, brought net profit down to $17,927, leaving balance of $112,827 as deficit at December 31, 1934. Cash in banks at that time was $41,733. During the year 96,830 wet tons were trammed to mill, 5043 tons from East Monarch and balance from West Monarch ore body. Broken ore at year-end was estimated at 5000 tons.

Hand Signals Widespread

The use of hand signals by motorists is prescribed by law in forty states. These signals have become one of the nation's languages.

Only a few states have no laws on the subject. On the whole, drivers know the driving language and use it freely. It is certain that thousands of accidents are averted every year by this sign "talk."

Oil Spare Tire Lock

A few drops of oil should be applied to the spare tire lock every time the car is lubricated.

Because many motorists fail to take this precaution, mechanics often find it necessary to break the lock in order to change a tire.

SOME QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some Little Known Matters That Should Prove of General Interest

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Question: Where is Colombia?

Answer: In the northern part of South America between Ecuador and Venezuela.

* * *

Question: How large is Colombia?

Answer: Nearly ten times as large as the State of New York. It is as long from north to south as the distance between St. Paul and New Orleans, and its coast line on the Carribean Sea and the Pacific ocean is longer than the distance from New York to Chicago.

* * *

Question: What minerals are found in Colombia?

Answer: The mountains contain many rich mines of silver and gold and there are some places where diamonds are found mixed with the gold. Colombia has produced more than $600,000,000 worth of gold.

* * *

Question: From what are chocolate and cocoa made?

Answer: From the seeds of the cacao fruit, which is grown on plantations in Colombia. The trees resemble lilac bushes, except they are from fifteen to thirty feet high. The fruit is about the size of a little squash, and is bright yellow steraked with red. It grows close to the bark of the tree and branches. It has a thick skin and inside this is a white pulp, in which are imbedded about thirty dark brown seeds, much like large lima beans.

From these seeds are made chocolate and cocoa. When the fruit is ripe the seeds are washed out of the pulp. They are dried in the sun and then shipped to factories in various parts of the world. There they are ground and from the meal, after the oil is taken out, the pure chocolate is made. From the seed hulls cocoa is made in much the same manner.

* * *

Question: Why is this plantation country in the Cauca Valley called "The Land of the Gentle Yes?"

Answer: Because the people of this valley are noted for their hospitality and dislike to say "no" to any request.

EFFICIENT BRAKING

The maximum braking effect is obtained when the wheels do not lock.

When wheels lock and slide, friction between the tires and the road surface is reduced, affecting brake efficiency.

SAFETY LEADERS PLAN ACCIDENT CONFERENCE

Leading figures in the accident prevention field will assemble in San Francisco at the Western Safety Conference, June 11 to 13. Traffic accidents will be one of the major subjects on the program. All phases of the accident situation, in the home, in industry, and in traffic, will be considered, with one entire day devoted to traffic safety. In attendance will be noted safety experts and representatives of safety organizations from eleven western states.

Sessions will be held at the Exposition Auditorium, where a variety of safety exhibits will also be displayed. Among the features of the conference will be safe driving demonstrations, a first aid demonstration program staged by the American Red Cross, and a safety parade. Sectional meetings will be held to develop possible solutions for special local safety problems.

Inspect Car Tools

Inspection of car tools before starting on a long trip should include attention to the water pump wrench and jack.

BE CAREFUL AT ALL INTERSECTIONS

Every intersection should be a warning sign to motorists. During 1934, 2740 persons were killed and 159,220 were injured in accidents involving the right of way.

Always approach intersections at a rate of speed which will make it possible for you to stop should another car, a pedestrian, or a stop signal suddenly appear before you. Never attempt to pass another car at an intersection.

Always observe "stop" signs by coming to a complete stop back of the curb line, then move slowly forward until the traffic clears sufficiently to let you through. When cars enter an intersection at the same time, the car on the right has the right of way, otherwise the car entering the intersection first (passing the curb line) has the right of way. Many drivers do not understand that a car which has complied with a "stop" sign and has then moved into the intersection has the right of way over cars approaching the intersection on the through street.

Use Correct Oil

The theory that one grade of oil should be used the year round, regardless of the condition of the motor, has been disproved.

The present trend is toward the lightest oil possible, depending wholly on the condition of the motor.

All reliable oil distributors have charts showing the proper grade of oil to use in each car. When in doubt about these recommendations, the motorist should consult a dependable mechanic.

TO OUR READERS

In working up to the achievement we have ever in mind, that of making the Daly City Record the best weekly newspaper in the state of California, we must have the hearty co-operation of the residents of this live community. The editor hears in unison the ejaculation from all readers:

"Why, how can we help?"

Succinctly stated, you can help the editor to accomplish what you must admit to be his highly laudable ambition by bringing or sending news to the Record office, and, what is equally important, bringing or sending it early.

COLUMN OF NRA BUSINESS FACTS

BUSNIESS BRIEFS

Automobile production is continuing at high speed. According to Cram's Reports, Inc., 109,537 cars and trucks were produced in the United States and Canada during the week ended April 13. In the week before, the figure was 107,895. One of the largest manufacturing firms reports that 95 cars out of every 100 delivered to dealers in March have been sold already, while a year ago the company reported dealers sold 82 out of every 100 cars delivered.

In March, the number of building permits issued in 215 cities was the largest issue in any month since April 1932, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. They represent an outlay of $45,056,822. The building permits issued in the same cities in February represented an outlay of $27,636,367. The March increase was 63 per cent, while the seasonal increase would normally be only 53 per cent. The increase over the record of March 1924, was 76.7 percent. The unusual advance is considered largely due to the program of the Federal Housing Administration.

After gradually declining for a month, steel production began to stage a comeback in the second week of April, advancing a point to 45 per cent of capacity according to the magazine, "Steel." Structural shape contract awards totaled 36,000 tons for the week. These include an award for 4,000 tons of transmission towers by the TVA. For the Fort Peck, Mont., and the Alton, Ill., dams, 31,000 tons of shapes and reinforcing material will have to be awarded this month.

According to "Media Records," 21 of the 38 departments in the local department store field showed increases in the use of advertising lineage in March. The furniture departments jumped from the use of 106,611 lines in March 1934, to 144,616 this March; sportswear, from 72,127 to 101,200; electrical refrigeration, from 7807 to 41,592; silks and velvets, from 36,769 to 60,219; toilet goods and drugs, from 63,497 to 89,960.

Recent developments have been of great encouragement to the heavy industries, the weak spot in the recovery procession. Charles Upham, engineer-director of the American Road Builders' Association, holds that the expenditure of $774,000,000 of Federal and State money over a period of three years, provided for in the Hayden-Cartwright act, and the plan to spend $500,000,000 for highway and street construcltion and $200,000,000 for the elimination of grade crossings under the work-relief bill will justify contractors in purchasing large amounts of new machinery and equipment.

Projects on file with the Bureau of Public Roads will require 500,000 tons of structural steel, it is estimated. It is also calculated that another 500,000 tons will be needed for the bridges which will be required in the road-building program. The importance of these two items may be learned from records of 1934, when the total amount of structural steel shipped was about 1,000,000 tons.

Renewed interest in farm ownership is reported by W. I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration. In the six months ended February 28, this year, Federal Land Banks disposed of 3664 farms against 1968 in the corresponding period, a year earlier.

Room sales last month in 29 transient hotels in New York City were the largest of any March during the past four years according to Harris, Kerr, Forster and Co., accountants. Despite the average sale per room of $3.01 which is the lowest daily rate in four years, dollar receipts of $1,523,039 were the largest in the past three years.

According to Standard Statistics Co. reports for both wholesale and retail trade gains throughout the country are ranging from 5 per cent to 25 per cent compared with a year ago.

Voluntary and co-operative groups in the grocery industry equaled the annual business volume of the corporate chain organizations last year for the first time in their history according to a survey made by the American Institute of Food Distribution, Inc. The combined sales of the chains and co-operatives of all types totaled $5,000,000,000. The two outstanding factors in this equalization are the rapid spread of the organization idea and the development of large food stores.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

New Rules to Stop "Nuisance" Assessments: NRA has issued a new set of rules governing contributions from industry code administration costs. The object is to relieve small firms of inequitable burdens, prevent multiple, simplify collections and permit the rates of contribution to be reduced at any time. One such new order is designed to provide a minimum, on some equitable basis such as size of firm or business volume or number of employees, below which no contributions will be asked. All orders approving budgets of code authorities, must include such classifications after April 30; while budgets now in effect must be amended by May 31 to include them.

Firecrackers Not So Long Now: A contribution to the "safe and sane" Fourth of July movement has been made upon the recommendation of the Pyro-technic code authority—namely the amendment of the code to limit the size of "salutes" and "firecrackers" to four inches in length and five-eighths of an inch in diameter. The amendment, which has been approved, will also cut down the amount of explosives to be used. The effective date is July 6, so supplies already manufactured for the coming celebration will not be kept from the market.

General Code Authority's Duties Increased: The NRA general code authority has been directed to take over the administration of the code controlling the Schiffli, Hand Machine Embroidery and Embroidery Thread and Scallop Cutting Industries. The original code authority was appointed for six months, but the time expired without a satisfactory means of selecting a permanent membership. The general code authority will make a study for the purpose of determining a method by which future appointments to the code authority for the industry shall be effected and report its suggestions to the NIRB.

Discontinued Hosiery Styles To Be Marked: Sixteen sections and three subsections of the Hosiery Code have just been amended, or changed, chiefly for the sake of clarity. A change in which the general public will be interested requires that firms, before disposing of discontinued styles and broken assortments below cost, must mark each hose in indelible ink—unless otherwise directed by the code authority—with the words "discontinued" or "discontinued pattern" or "discontinued style."

Court Upholds Code Authority: Judge C. A. Dewey ,of the U. S. District Court, Southern District of Iowa, has refused to restrain the Iowa Grievance Board, composed of members of the Motion Picture Industry Code Authority, from carrying out a "Cease and Desist" order directed against the Central States Theaters. "Ceas eand Desist" orders are issued to stop members of the industry from supplying code violators with films for exhibition.

Trade-In Values Manual: The NIRB has approved a manual of operations which is to be used by the National Automobile Dealers Association in compiling an official used car guide, which will establish trade-in values for used motor vehicles. The manual, the board found, "does not permit uniform deductions or additions, which are designed to bring about arbitrary uniformity in the fair market value of used motor vehicles."

Safety For Coffee Workers: The coffee code has been amended to direct the code authority to make a study of the safety and health requirements of workers and to submit standards for working conditions by the end of July. While proposed standards are to be conducive to the general welfare of employees, they are not to be burdensome to firms. When approved by the NRA, the standards will be binding upon all members of the industry.

Cost Systems Differentiated: The distinction between mandatory and permissive cost systems is emphasized in a memorandum dispatched by the NRA code authorities and state and regional NRA directors. Mandatory cost systems are included in codes and are used in connection with "selling below cost" provisions. When approved b ythe NIRB, these systems are enforceable. Permissive systems are used for educational purposes when precticable and are not enforceable.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, May 12, on the subject "Adam and Fallen Man."

The Golden Text will be: "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up: that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life" (John 3: 14, 15). Bible selections will include the following passage from Romans 6: 20-22, "For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were free from righteousness. What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for the end of those things is death. But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "When we wake to the truth of being, all disease, pain, weakness, weariness, sorrow, sin, death, will be unknown, and the mortal dream will forever cease" (pp. 218, 219).

Bad Roads In Majority

Of the country's 3,000,000 miles of highways, 2,500,000 miles, 85 per cent are still classed as mud o rdust, it is said. That means eight and one-half of every ten miles are distinctly bad roads.

As for high class roads, we have only 160,000 miles; only five per cent of all roads have been surfaced with high type pavement.

Correct Idling a Saving

The motorist should realize that an incorrect idling adjustment of the carburetor tends to be wasteful of fuel. So many times when the idling adjustment is so low as to permit the engine to stall when the accelerator is released, the driver makes compensation by setting the hand throttle.

Usually the compensation is overdone, with the result that the engine idles too fast, which always is a needless fuel consumer.

HAPPENINGS HERE ELEVEN YEARS AGO

Some Items Gleaned From Copies Of The Record Of a Decade Past

The race meeting at Tanforan is attracting many visitors from Daly City, who love the "sport of kings."

Mrs. L. T. Cook, city water clerk, has moved from Peoria street to 6283 Mission street.

Mr. Jay Jensen is very busy making preparations to occupy his home at the corner of Evergreen avenue and Peoria street.

The Stockton home on Crocker avenue is moving rapidly, and already gives promise of an elegant appearance when completed.

We are informed that the San Mateo Times will shortly become a daily newspaper. At present it is published weekly.

Mrs. Thomas Bell of Joost avenue, recently sprained her foot, and is recuperating at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Du Jardin, 245 Santa Rosa avenue.

Frances Poket, Daly City's talented little dancer, was photographed for the San Francisco Chronicle at the schools field day held in Burlingame last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Del Nore and family spent the weekend at Palomar Canyon, near Hayward, at the ranch owned by Mrs. Del Nore's mother.

A daughter (Barbara May) was born on May 5 to Mr. and Mrs. F. Foreman, Jr., at 35 Woodrow street, with Dr. A. H. Rankin in attendance. Mrs. Foreman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Heusden of Woodrow street.

A letter has been received from Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Federspiel, telling of their safe arrival in Seattle. Mr. Federspiel was the guest of honor and speaker at a banquet given by the Union Oil Company on the day of his arrival.

The origin of Mothers' Day is probably to be traced to the Mothering Day in Lent. In 1906 the idea became popular throughout the country, and since 1914 has been made the matter of proclamation by the president. All are cordially invited to attend the M. E. church, to honor the greatest of all institutions, that of motherhood, Sunday, May 11th, 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The keynote of the service will be rather that of life than death, for as Victor Hugo says: "Nothing human ever dies."

Larger Starter Motor

When the starter must be replaced, the car owner may find himself in a position to overcome one of the inherent defects in his vehicle; namely, that of a starter of too small a capacity.

If there is room for a larger starter and the old one has given somewhat unsatisfactory service when in good condition, the installment of a larger capacity unit is well worth considering.

Balanced Wheels

Unbalanced wheels have a tendency to cause what is commonly known as "high speed shimmy. Rapid driving demands proper balance of both front and back wheels. Tire makers have recognized this and most tires are balanced. The point where the valve should be placed is marked on the casing.

Other factors tending to throw wheels out of balance are tire patches and boots and tires that are worn in spots.

TREMENDOUS TOLL TAKEN BY AUTOS

Visualize a city of 30,000 people. If once a year a foreign bombing plane were to wipe out the people of a city of that size, we would do everything in our power to avert such a calamity. But it is said that each year automobiles kill enough people to populate a city of 30,000 and injure and maim 850,000 more.

During the last four years 125,000 persons have been killed and 4,000,000 have been injured by automobiles.

Much is being accomplished by the education of drivers and pedestrians.

We still have a long way to go in the building of safe easy driving highways and the elimination of hazards that foster accidents.

Only through a direct attack on existing danger spots can real progress be made against accidents. Every year we know that 4500 people will be killed or injured at railroad crossings. Of the quarter million railroad crossings in the country, at least 30,000 are extremely dangerous.

In cities, when streets are improved and ample room is provided for motor traffic, not only is the accident possibility lessened, but time is saved and congestion avoided. There is need for more uncongested boulevards, modern bridges, pedestrian tunnels, highway grade separations where busy arteries meet and where suburban through highways intersect.

Judging Oil Economy

Wait until the engine of the new car is thoroughly broken in before forming any judgment as to its oil consumption economy, or lack of it.

You will find that the amount consumed during the first 1500 miles is not a criterion of its later per formance, which will be a lot better.

NOTICE OF INTENTION OF RECALL AND REMOVAL OF C. HOMER THOMAS, 217 MACDONALD AVENUE, TOWN OF BAYSHORE, FROM THE OFFICE OF MEMBER OF THE CITY COUNCIL, OF THE TOWN OF BAYSHORE, COUNTY OF SAN MATEO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

We, the undersigned, each of whom is a qualified and registered voter of the Town of Bayshore, County of San Mateo, State of California, a municipal corporation of the Six Class, hereby give notice of our intention to, and demand for the recall of C. Homer Thomas, as a member of the City Council of the Town of Bayshore, County of San Mateo, State of California, in pursuance to the provisions of that certain act entitled "An Act to provide for the recall of elective officers of incorporated cities and towns, and to repeal Chapter 32, Statutes of 1911, extra session, entitled 'An Act to provide for the recall of elective officers of incorporated cities and towns,' approved January 2, 1912", approved May 8, 1931, Statutes 1931, p. 563, and as said act has subsequently been amended.

The reasons for the proposed recall and removal of said C. Homer Thomas, from said office of Member of City Council are as follows, to-wit:

Dissatisfaction of the conduct of said C. Homer Thomas, in his official capacity, and that the official conduct of said C. Homer Thomas, as a member of said Council has been dictatorial, indifferent, and has been unwilling on his part to enforce law and order in said Town and in opposition to the will and preferences of his constituents, and his conduct in Office is obstructive to the best interests of the Town of Bayshore, County of San Mateo, State of California, and to its residents, and owners of property therein.

This petition is filed for the purpose of effecting the recall and removal from office of C. Homer Thomas, now a member of the City Council of the Town of Bayshore, County of San Mateo, State of California, and to bring about the election of a successor to the said C. Homer Thomas, in the manner provided by law.

The undersigned proponents hereby give notice of their intention to circulate and file a petition for signatures of qualified electors of said Town for the recall and removal of said C. Homer Thomas, as member of the City Council, of said Town of Bayshore, and election of his successor as provided by law.

ANSWERING NOTICE OF INTENTION TO RECALL "HOMER C. THOMAS, 217 MACDONALD AVENUE, TOWN OF BAYSHORE."

First: There is no such party living at said address; however, as I am C. Homer Thomas of that address, I am protecting my interests by answering same.

Second: An article in same edition as recall notice quoted Mr. Schwerin as stating "that the recall was the opening move in a battle to drive the garbage dumpers out of Bayshore." This shows Mr. Schwerin's ignorance of what is really going on in this district. If he knew anything he would know that the City Council has nothing whatever to do with that situation. That is a matter of the Bayshore Sanitary District, which district was formed many years before Mr. Schwerin started to get Bayshore incorporated so he could lease his property, and he would also know that the Sanitary District is under the jurisdiction of the State of California and NOT the town, or City Council, of Bayshore.

Third: I was put in office by the legal voters of this district and have tried to do the best I could for ALL the residents, and not any particular group or clique, and if a majority of the legal voters want someone else in the office I hold that is their privilege, but not the kind of voters that voted from Mr. Schwerin's address, 606 Wallbridge street, on the incorporation election, men living in San Francisco and Daly City. I wish to qualify that statement as to being Mr. Schwerin's address, since that is doubtful.

Fourth: Mr. Schwerin cost me some votes at the time of my election by putting out a paper under the "Chamber of Commerce" heading and using my name on same after I had forbidden him to do so—maybe that is his reason for classing me as "an obstructionist."

Fifth: I am only one man in a body of five. I can, and do, express my opinions as to what I believe to be right and for the best interests of the majority of the people, but I have no control of the other four members of the body; they have their opinions, too.

Sixth: I have been a property owner and taxpayer here since 1924, and I intend to do what I believe to be right and for the best interest of the city as a whole so long as the people who put me in office wish me to serve them.

Seventh: I wish to state that Mr. Schwerin's charges are false in each and every item.

Dated May 3, 1935, Bayshore, Calif.

NOTICE OF ANSWER TO RECALL OF FRANK B. JOHNSTON, 219 MACDONALD AVE., BAYSHORE, CALIF.

I hereby state Edward H. Schwerin Jr. and his constituents have and did file false and malicious charges in the recall of myself, which will be shown by reasons stated below:

First—He and the others signing the recall have not attended meetings of the City Council.

Second—Have never shown any interest except selfish interests in the city.

Third—Made a statement—The garbage interests were behind certain recalls, also were behind me, which is absolutely false.

Fourth—Another false statement: That I was an obstructionist. Had they attended council meetings they would know differently.

Fifth—Another false statement: I have been dictatorial. I have been a minority on the board and could not be.

Sixth—My conduct in office may be unsatisfactory to E. Schwerin Jr. and his crowd, but it has been honest and, I think, for the best interests of all in the incorporated area.

Dated May 3, 1935, Bayshore, Calif.

FRANK B. JOHNSTON,

Rash Disfigured Face

Disappeared After Using Cuticura

"A rash broke out on my face from some external irritation and spread very rapidly. The skin was red, and the rash burned and itched so that I scratched night and day. Then it developed into large spots or eruptions and disfigured my face.

"I tried different kinds of soaps, but had no success. I read about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to send for a free sample. The result was so good that I bought more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment the rash disappeared." (Signed) Herbert B. Skyles, R. D. 1, Vintondale, Pa.

HAWAIIANS TURN TO PRESERVATION OF RACIAL GROUP

Not that the Hawaiian race is dying out—far from it—though it is certainly spreading out, by intermixture. But it is at the same time experiencing today a fresh grounding in its own subsoil through an increased "inmarrying"—that is, the tendency of part-Hawaiians to marry back into the Hawaiian group rather than to continue outward toward a further dilution of blood.

The Hawaiian people are a vigorous and prolific people, and their women are instinctive and devoted mothers. The race is experiencing now a period of recrudescence in numbers as well as in racial self-consciousness.

Curiously enough, this new racial self-consciousness is one quite unmistakable symptom of the changinng cultural life in the islands. It is a symptom not to be overlooked—this swing from an earlier enthusiasm for the "melting pot ideal," on the part of almost all elements in society, to the tendency to draw apart into self-conscious racial groups with cordial relations but a distinct feeling of difference in interests and background.

This finds its most practical expression in separate civic clubs and chambers of commerce. It is accentuated by the cultural clubs drawn along racial lines at the university and by the growing emphasis upon the study of racial heritage in the schools.—Elizabeth Green, in Asia Magazine.

WORRY CAUSES ACIDITY

FOR a year I've had plenty of worries. I had little appetite, no zest for work and for months I scarcely slept a wink. My physician told me that constant worry had set up an acid condition in my system which, in turn, caused sleeplessness, loss of appetite and stomach "nerves."

He recommended MILNESIA Wafers to neutralize the acids and they certainly did the trick. I still have to worry about my business but not about my health.

SUICIDE BY GAS AT ROCKAWAY

San Francisco Waiter Found In Car On Highway With Fumes Pouring In

Edward J. Reddy, 59, a San Francisco waiter employed for the past fifteen years at Herbert's, was found dead in his automobile early Sunday morning. The car was parked near Rockaway Beach. He apparently had committed suicide.

A piece of garden hose had been attached to the exhaust of the automobile and led to the interior of the car. The motor was still running and sending fumes into the interior of the car when Clarence Keel of 337 Franklin street stopped to investigate and found the unconscious man.

Deceased had resided with his wife and daughter at the family home on Twenty-fourth avenue.

The widow could give no explanation as to the cause of her husband's rash act.

The remains were removed to the establishment of W. C. Lasswell & Co., where Deputy Coroner Luella D. Pepper took charge of the investigation. An inquest is pending.

Reddy was a member of the Geneva Association, of Waiters' Union, Local No. 30, and Independent Order of Foresters No. 10.

The funeral services, conducted by the Foresters, were held in the Mortuary chapel of Lasswell & Co. at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Interment in Cypress Lawn Cemetery.

THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN LEGION TO BROADCAST

An event of more than ordinary interest is scheduled to take place on the evening of this Friday, May 10, between 7:15 and 1:45 o'clock. At that time Burlingame Squadron, Sons of the American Legion No. 163, will stage a public initiation over station KYA in San Francisco.

Six boys, officers in the squadron, will step before the KYA microphone on this occasion to take their part in the initiatory ceremony of this patriotic organization, being the first time that this interesting ceremony has been broadcast by any squadron of the Sons of the American Legion in the United States.

It is particularly requested by the American Legion that all Legionnaires and their friends listen in on this occasion, and in doing so they will perform a very important duty, as it will be proof to the Sons of the Legion that their activities not only fill a very real and vital need, but that they have the sympathy, help and endorsement of all who love this country and its flag.

During the progress of this broadcast the San Francisco County Band will have charge of the musical portion of the program, which alone will amply repay all who listen in.
